Synopsis of Book

Carrots and Other Poems is one man's quiet reflections on the places and people in his life – of his native Minnesota in the United States where he grew up, of New England and Massachusetts where he built his career, and of Singapore, where he currently lives and works. David Fedo muses on a wide variety of subjects in his poems, from family, to religion, to literature and of life and its complexities in between. On every page, this wise, well-worn soul shares his thoughts on life – that ineffable, eventful adventure, and joyfully celebrates its extraordinary mysteries with us

About the Author

David Fedo was born in Duluth, Minnesota, on the shores of America's vast Lake Superior. He graduated with a B.A. degree in English from the University of Minnesota, Duluth. Later, he received his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees in English and American Literature from Boston University.

For many years he served as the academic vice president and dean of Curry College, in Milton, Massachusetts. He left in 2007 to become the executive director and visiting scholar of the Singapore branch of the Wheelock College (Boston, Massachusetts) Center for International Education, Leadership, and Innovation, located at Ngee Ann Polytechnic. His poems have been published in periodicals and journals in the United States and Canada. Fedo has published a book on the well-known American poet, William Carlos Williams (1983). Fedo and his wife Susan still retain a home in Medford, Massachusetts.
